Response Rate:	20.00% (2 of 10)
1	Very engaging, gave me new insight and perspective into topics I didn't even know I enjoyed. A weakness is the lack of participation from some of the students and if you were to miss a class, it would show in the exam.
2	The course was fun and engaging.

Question: What other comments do you have about the strengths and weaknesses of this course?

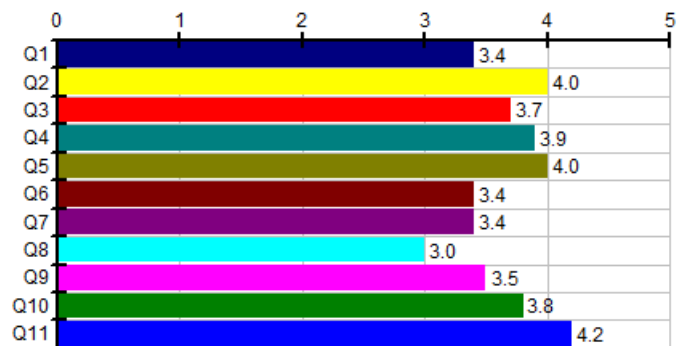

Response Rate: 70.00% (7 of 10)

1	n/a
2	This course would be more effective as a synchronous course. The professor did not appropriately present the content of this course. There was no communication through email and student's did not receive notifications through the blackboard shell. It seemed as though students were being tested to check the COMM 410 blackboard shell. With all the technological advancements and shifting to a completely online schedule, I found having no email or notifications was unfair. The readings presented provided the correct information, yet the lectures posted would only last maybe 5 minutes at most. If we were in the classroom, the lecture would be at least 75 minutes. I understand online this may shorten the lecture, but 5 minute lectures seemed pointless. The professor also posted discussion posts each week, but there was no clear instruction if students were supposed to complete them. The posts said students should do them, there was nothing in the syllabus regarding discussion posts. This professor is obviously very knowledgeable in this subject, I wish the content could have been better presented to students.
3	The use of blackboard was not great... there was also a website being used which was not great. The recorded lectures were too short and didn't really add anything. The instructor was difficult to reach... didn't respond to emails. Instructions on what to do were not very clear... were we supposed to read texts posted in their entirety? No clue. Overall very disorganized and didn't learn much. Might be because it is an asynch class.
4	Strengths: Included ways for students to be interactive with each other and the discussion boards were interesting Weakness: Some of the course material wasn't very useful for the main assignment.
5	Not a lot of communication.
6	More graded assignments
7	Course was very hard to understand, had a separate website instead of just being on Blackboard like every other class I've ever taken at CCSU. Overall very hard to follow and understand and no emails checking in or anything.

1	stregth- jose ppushed for discussion
2	weak-material was heavy and a lot to soak in
3	none
4	Once we switched to online class it became a joke. No updates from professor only a test and project.
5	I thought it was taught really well in person. I always loved participating in class discussions, and felt like I learned a lot from this class.
6	Has given me a good understanding of how public opinion is influenced and how it has been around long before our time.

Question:	What other comments do you have about the strengths and weaknesses of this course?
Response Rate:	83.33% (5 of 6)
1	keep making it a debate type of class, i loved this class
2	This course was intense in subject matter, but the professor made class engaging. Some subjects are hard to talk about, but he pushes students to express their thoughts and give examples to drive the purpose home.
3	Strengths- Professor pushes students to think on their own & use critical thinking
4	Professor Del Ama is extremely intelligent but I wish he would relate more of the topics to modern day. We focus a lot on the philosophies and beliefs from many years ago, but I feel it would better prepare me for the real world to take the time to focus each lesson on how it relates to our modern lives as well.
5	I love it how the assignments force critical thinking along with relations between what goes on in todays world, with what was taught in the past.

Question:	What other comments do you have about the strengths and weaknesses of this course?
Response Rate:	62.50% (5 of 8)
1	There are a couple of weaknesses in this class. The professor must be more open and receptive to his students' comments because his demeanor, body language, and how he carries himself make students not want to speak. Especially when he says "NO," you can tell it comes from a place of judgment, and you can either be right or wrong. If the information you are telling him isn't coming straight from his course content, you are wrong, even though it is "public opinion."
2	Strengths: Good opportunities to voice opinions Weaknesses: Same people talking all the time gives no opportunities for others to talk, not many chances to boost your grade (only midterm, final, paper, and optional presentation). More of a philosophy class than communication course
3	I love the autonomy this professor provides. He provides a mix of on-ground and self-paced or online course. This learning structure enables me to pay attention to the course lectures provided on his created website and in class lectures. I love the knowledge and intellectual stimulation this professor provided. He is very knowledgeable and spends time with each student if it is needed. He also provided review and feedback. I wish I could have taken more classes with him if I needed anymore!
4	I enjoyed the structure of the course and felt that it was challenging and intellectually stimulating. It helped me think of public opinion in new ways that I had never considered before. The online lectures were detailed and served as a reliable resource that I liked to refer to.
5	Complex ideas. Given plenty of time to ask questions.
